this volume invites scholars of the catholic and protestant reformations to incorporate recent advances in transnational and transregional history into their own field of research as it seeks to unravel how cross border movements shaped reformations in early modern europe covering a geographical space that ranges from scandinavia to spain and from england to hungary the chapters in this volume apply a transregional perspective to a vast array of topics such as the history of theological discussion knowledge transfer pastoral care visual allegory ecclesiastical organization confessional relations religious exile and university politics the volume starts by showing in a first part how transfer and exchange beyond territorial circumscriptions or proto national identifications shaped many sixteenth century reformations the second part of this volume is devoted to the acceleration of cultural transfer that resulted from the newly invented printing press by translation as well as transmission of texts and images the third and final part of this volume examines the importance of mobility and migration in causing transregional reformations focusing on the process of crossing borders in peripheries and borderlands all chapters contribute to the de centering of religious reform in early modern europe rather than princes and urban governments steering religion the early modern reformations emerge as events shaped by authors and translators publishers and booksellers students and professors exiles and refugees and clergy and female members of religious orders crossing borders in europe a continent composed of fractured states and regions

peter van der veer has gathered together a groundbreaking collection of essays that suggests that conversion to forms of christianity in the modern period is not only a conversion to modern forms of these religions but also to religious forms of modernity religious perceptions of the self of community and of the state are transformed when western discourses of modernity become dominant in the modern world this volume seeks to relate europe and its others by exploring conversion both in modern europe and in the colonized world
